

Fighting Eviction: Tribal Land Rights and Research in Action

By Daniel Buckles, Rajeev Khedkar, Banshi Ghevde & Dnyaneshwar Patil

Cambridge University Press, New Delhi, India, 2012. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. Dust Jacket Condition: New. The book engages readers in a process of reflection on what it means to do research with people rather than on people by recounting a collaborative inquiry with the Katkari formerly called Criminal Tribe and so-called Primitive Tribal Group in Maharashtra India. The book is designed to help readers learn about participatory action research progressively and with a strong narrative grounded in issues facing Adivasi populations in South Asia and the real-life dilemmas of engaged research. As such it is accessible to both graduate and undergraduate students in many disciplines. This includes all of the standard social science departments teaching methods and promoting field-based research. The book will appeal to development practitioners and graduate students of Sociology Anthropology Development Studies and Tribal Studies. Printed Pages: 258.

Reviews

The publication is easy in read better to understand. It is writter in basic words and phrases rather than hard to understand. You wont truly feel monotony at anytime of your respective time (that's what catalogues are for about if you question me).
